HASSETT family of HEALDSBURG, Sonoma County, California, USA

Tradition in this family suggests they may perhaps be descended from the Irish BLENNERHASSETT family, but this is unproven, no evidence found

NOTES ON JOHN D. HASSETT & AARON HASSETT WHO SETTLED AT HEALDSBURG, SONOMA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

1. At Healdsburg is a road named "Hasset Lane"

2. "Historical Atlas Map of Sonoma County California" by Thomas H. Thompson & Co., Oakland 1877

an illustrated page "Malacomes Rancho" has a view of a house "Residence of J.D.Hassett, Healdsburg, California"

3. "History of Sonoma County" by Alley, Bowen & Co. 1880, p?

"Hassett, J. D. - Born in Summit county, Ohio, January 21, 1832, where he resided until 1852, when he emigrated to California, crossing the plains with ox-teams as far as Salt Lake and from there to Placerville; he made the journey on foot in company with his brother; Here they mined and worked on the South Fork Ditch until the following Spring when they came to this county. After remaining for a short time on a farm about five miles north from Healdsburg, the subject of this sketch engaged in the mill business, which he conducted for a space of two and one-half years; He then, in company with his brother, built a saw-mill on Mill creek, where he labored for two years; He then built the Healdsburg Flouring Mill, and after conducting it for five years disposed of the property; since which time he has turned his attention to sheep raising and farming; Married Miss Sarah E. Vaughan April 3, 1859, James T. and Lulu C. are their only children"

4. "Hannah Clayborn's History of Healdsburg" 2003

"In 1858 John and Aaron Hassett, brothers who had come to the area to work at March and Heald's mill, set about to alleviate the shortage of flour by building the largest grinding mill in the county, located near the southeast corner of the current Matheson Street and Healdsburg Avenue; As it was also the largest building in Healdsburg, the mill was quickly put to use even before the steam-driven mill machinery arrived; The opening exercises of the Russian River Academy were held in the spacious hall, and when the mill finally opened, on 18.6.1858, a grand ball celebrated the occasion. Jennie Smith later remembered getting the very first flour from that mill; Even though the pioneer issue was black with oil from the new machinery, it was so prized that it was used to bake a batch of biscuits "as black as your hat"
